

Flor Diaz Pulido

Deputy Head of Unit "Resource Efficiency and Raw Materials", Directorate General on "Internal Market, Industry, Entrepreneurship and SMEs" of the European Commission.

After studying Law at the Autonomous University of Barcelona and post graduate on European and International affairs at University Pompeu Fabra (Spain), Flor Diaz Pulido completed studies on International Affairs at the Cambridge University, Sciences Politiques (Paris, France) and the Haute Études Internationales in Geneva (Switzerland).

She joined the European Commission in 1995. After 4 years in the legal affairs department of DG Fisheries dealing notably with Competition law, she moved into Energy matters at Directorate General of Energy, where she dealt notably with inter-institutional matters; internal market and legal affairs. In 2000 she joined the services of the Directorate General on Mobility and Transport, where she worked extensively on Aviation and maritime transport matters, notably related to aviation internal market; consumer affairs related to Transport, passenger rights). She was appointed Head of Sector and later Deputy Head of Unit since 2009. She joined DG GROW in 2013 as Deputy Head of Unit in Unit C-2 "Resources efficiency and raw materials", where she covers various matters inter alia, research and innovation, internal market, circular economy and bioeconomy and international initiatives related to raw materials.